Commends Stage's
Pond Drive

STAGE'S POND — The balance of the Save Stage's Pond Fund was presented to Ohio Department of Natural Resources officials Wednesday morning. The money, $3,000, will be used to construct a waterfowl observation blind. From the left are, Dick Mosher, director of the division of natural preserves, Joan Morrison, president of the Columbus Regional Council of Garden Clubs, Pauline Savey and Miriam Weaver of Pickaway Garden Club; and Robert Teaters, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

"This is one of the finest examples we have where a community has worked to preserve a natural area," Robert Teaters said Wednesday when he accepted a $3,000 check for construction of a waterfowl observation blind at Stage's Pond.

The check was presented to Teaters, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, by Pauline Savey and Miriam Weaver of Pickaway Garden Club and Joan Morrison, Columbus Regional Council president.

It was the balance of the Save Stage's Pond campaign fund initiated by the Pickaway Garden Club. Funds came from all over the state in the effort to raise money to purchase the natural pond gouged out thousands of years ago by the Great Glacier.

Because of the efforts of the Pickaway Garden Club, the community and other interested persons around the state, 178 acres have now been acquired for $126,000 of community, state and federal matching funds.

The initial goal of the garden club was $20,000 to purchase the pond for a natural preserve.

In Meat Products

WASHINGTON (AP) — There will be some finely ground chips from pig and cow bones in your hot dogs if the Agriculture Department carries through with its plan to let food processors use machines to gnaw meat closer to the bone.

But those bone chips should not be noticeable and, besides, they are a good source of calcium, the department says.

The plan is to allow deboning machines to scrape the bones of processed livestock carcasses. Deboning machines are used now by

Cold, Damp
Weather Hits
New England

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cold, wet weather continued during the night over much of New England and from New York State into northeast Pennsylvania.

Flooding occurred on some streams in Vermont as a result of afternoon and evening rains. Snow continued during the night at higher levels in the northern Appalachians.

As much as 10 inches of snow accumulated Wednesday at some mountainous locations in upper New York State and New England.

Officials at Worcester, Mass., where weather records have been kept for 100 years, said it was the latest snowfall on record.

There were scattered showers and thunderstorms during the night in several parts of the nation, including southern Texas, Arizona, the central and northern Rockies, Nebraska, South Dakota and southern Minnesota. Utah reported some thunderstorm activity during the night, but most of the storms produced only lightning, gusty winds and little rain.

Clear skies and temperatures in the 40s and 50s prevailed over much of the Southeast, the Ohio Valley, the mid and lower Mississippi Valley, Oklahoma, eastern Kansas and North Dakota. Fair skies were the rule in California.

of natural preserves of ODNR, said when the state was first approached about purchasing the land, officials were not too interested.

But when the Save Stage's Pond Drive was begun, officials in ODNR saw they would be able to obtain $80,000 worth of real estate for an investment of only $20,000 of state money they began to take a serious look at the project.

The groundwork for the campaign by the garden club was laid by Mrs. Savey and Miriam Barnhart. Miriam Weaver was then named chairman of the drive for the garden club and they went state-wide in the effort to raise the money. The drive was so successful they were able not only to purchase the original tract containing the pond but also were able to add some wooded acreage to the preserve.

"It is so natural anymore for a community to look to government to do these things," Teaters said. In commending the local garden club and the regional council "It is encouraging to us to see that people of all ages are as interested in preserving their natural heritage as they are in preserving their cultural heritage."

the industry but not in the final bone scraping manner being urged by the Agriculture Deptment for processed meat products.

The department's plan would allow processors to include up to one pound of bone chips in every 100 pounds of meat to make such things as pork sausage, canned beef stew and frozen pizza.

Officials say the technique could add nearly one billion pounds of meat a year to the U.S. food supply, about five pounds per American.

The department, explaining the new approach, said, "Under traditional hand deboning methods, loss of meat typically occurs when packing house employees attempt to cut the meat from neck bones, ribs and backbones. Mechanical deboning machines can strip such bones clean of all meat that otherwise would not be gotten by hand deboning."

In the process, however, the department said that "a small amount of very finely ground bone" would be left in the meat. The proposed regulations would allow up to one per cent "calcium content" in mechanically deboned meat for processing.

The plan was criticized by Rodney E. Leonard, director of the private Community Nutrition Institute, who said "there are no microbiological standards" in the proposal and that there is a greater threat of bacterial contamination when such scrapings are processed into food.

Leonard is a former USDA executive who during the 1960s was head of a consumer and marketing agency which included federal meat inspection.

Officials said they recognize the issue is controversial and therefore will hold "consumer briefings" on the proposal, which will be opened for public comment at least through August 25.

The first briefing will be at the department's headquarters on May 26. Others will be in Sacramento, Calif., June 11; New York, June 23; and Chicago, July 8. Anyone wishing to submit written comments can send them in duplicate to the Hearing Clerk, Room 112-A, USDA, Washington, D.C. —

Busing Hot Issue?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi is moving toward a lonely decision that could make school busing a major issue in yet another national political campaign.

But Levi's decision will have no immediate impact on court orders imposing busing in Boston and other cities. It's doubtful that the course Levi is considering could actually lead to any changes in local school districts until next year — after the 1976 elections.

White House and Justice Department officials insisted Wednesday that Levi alone will decide whether to use the Boston school case as a vehicle for the federal government to seek new Supreme Court guidelines limiting the use of busing to integrate schools. His decision is expected this week.

The debate has split the Ford administration and the Justice Department itself as various officials lined up on opposite sides.

Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman, the only black Cabinet member and a former civil rights lawyer, discussed the matter with Levi privately. He declined comment on the discussion, but he has said he supports the Boston school busing order.

The chairman of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, the League of Women Voters, a leader of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and 500 delegates to the National Conference on Desegregation Without Turmoil all urged the department not to seek new busing guidelines, particularly in the Boston case.

The national controversy may push the issue toward the forefront of the political campaign. It's already a major issue in Kentucky, where President Ford faces a primary election on Tuesday.

But department officials insist that Levi will not be swayed by partisan considerations.

And Ford tried to brush off any hint that the timing of the move might be aimed at gaining antibusing support in upcoming primaries. Ford said, "We have made a major effort not to inject busing into the campaign. We hope we can keep this type of matter away from the emotional involvement of this problem and the primary elections."

Ford said he has asked Levi and David Mathews, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, to look for alternatives to busing.

Whatever course Levi takes may change votes, but it won't change court orders imposing busing any time soon, if ever.

If Levi proceeds with the plan he is considering, he would simply file a friend-of-the-court brief asking the Supreme Court to review the Boston busing order.

Department motions are believed to carry considerable weight with the justices, but there's no guarantee that Levi could persuade the court to take the case.

And if the court should decide to hear the case, there's no guarantee that the justices could be persuaded to accept the Ford administration's proposals on how busing should be limited.

Furthermore, a decision would be unlikely before next year. Until then, court-ordered busing would continue under present rules.

Tigers Top Indians For Title

CIRCLEVILLE TIGERS

Circleville hosted Hillsboro in a head-to-head clash for the South Central Ohio League crown and proved they are true champions as the Tigers stopped the Indians, 5-3, Wednesday.

The Tigers who were leading second place Hillsboro by one game in the league were up to the challenge and copped sole possession of the crown for the first time since 1972. Coach Tom Cole and assistant coach Ty Ankrom guided the Tigers to a 10-3 mark in league play.

Doug McGlone went all the way for the Tigers as he scattered seven hits, walked one and fanned seven.

Newby hurled the distance for Hillsboro, allowing eight hits, four walks and striking out seven.

Circleville opened the scoring in the bottom of the first when Brent Mancini singled and went to third on a single by Biff Bumgarner. Bumgarner stole second and both runners raced home on Brad Allison's single.

The Tigers added another tally in the third when Bumgarner walked, again stole second and scored on a single by Jerry Strawser.

Hillsboro showed its only scoring spurge of the game when the Indians tallied three times in the top of the fourth to knot the count at 3-3.

But, the Tigers quickly corrected this when Brett Allen doubled in the bottom of the fourth and scampered home with what proved to be the winning run on Keith Sanders single.

Strawser doubled in the bottom of the fifth and crossed the plate with an insurance run when Brian Fath rapped a single.

From there on, the game belonged to McGlone and he took it.

"I was extremely pleased with the attitude, improved defense and constant hustle of our young men," coach Cole commented.

Circleville is now 17-6 for the season and will meet Wehrle for the AA District title 5 p.m. Friday at Liberty Union.

Health Officials Set Plans
To Distribute Flu Vaccine

By DAVE AMEY
Herald City Editor

A blue-ribbon council of local leaders is expected to assist the Pickaway County Board of Health plan and implement the mass inoculation of about 40,000 county residents against the suspected epidemic of New Jersey type A influenza.

The council, which is still being formed, will meet June 8, according to Health Department supervisor Leo Kahanek, to map out specific areas of responsibility.

Time and location of the meeting will be announced later.

The council will be composed of about 15 civic and public agency representatives charged with relieving the massive burden of the federal government - ordered immunization program.

Volunteer help needed to implement the program and the myriad of administrative work associated with the plan are the biggest obstacles they will have to hurdle.

Although the Pickaway County Health Department will receive vaccine, needles, syringes, and other supplies associated with the program, the staff is not large enough to man the concentrated immunization clinics devised by the Ohio Department of Health.

Volunteers are needed to administer the doses and keep accurate records required by ODH.

Two separate immunization programs will be conducted in Pickaway County - one for the distribution of bivalent vaccine to high risk patients only and the other for the dissemination of monovalent vaccine to the remainder of the eligible population.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed little movement today, as traders failed to react to some favorable economic news from Washington.

The opening Dow Jones industrial average was unchanged, and gainers held a slight edge over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

As the market opened, the government reported the growth rate of the Gross National Product in the first quarter was revised upward to 8.5 per cent from 7.5 per cent, and the rate of inflation based on the GNP was revised downward to 3.5 per cent from 3.7 per cent.

In a separate report, the Commerce Department said after-tax corporate profits in the first quarter were up 5.5 per cent.

But traders failed to respond to the news as Wall Street remained preoccupied with the Federal Reserve's credit tightening actions, and the resulting rise in several key interest rates.

Among today's prices, American Telephone & Telegraph declined 3/4 to 55 1/2, while McDermott added 3/4 to 49, and Schlumberger was up 1/4 to 80.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average declined 0.55 to 988.90.

Humphrey Sees Chance Of Open Convention

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Tuesday's Democratic primary results in Maryland and Michigan reopen the party's national convention but noncandidate Hubert H. Humphrey still sees only an outside chance he would emerge with the nomination, he said Wednesday night.

The former vice president, his political adrenalin obviously flowing again after the brakes had been put on former Gov. Jimmy Carter's bandwagon, told a news conference here "we're about where we were prior Pennsylvania. An open convention." Humphrey, appearing with veteran Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, prior to a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, said the Maryland victory of California Gov. Jerry Brown "did a great deal in the sense of opening up the convention. The so-called bandwagon theory has been slowed down, let me say, to a sensible movement and speed."

But equally significant, the Minnesota senator said, was the race in Michigan between Carter, the former Georgia governor who emerged as the undisputed front runner after sweeping Pennsylvania late last month, and Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz. Humphrey noted that their contest ended in "a virtual dead heat, they shared the delegates."

The senator reiterated that his own stance has not changed—that he is available for the nomination in the event of a convention deadlock—but he added that he regards such a development as having only "an outside chance." He said that possibility depends on what happens in big primaries yet to be held in Ohio, California, New Jersey, and elsewhere. "The big game has yet to be played," he said.

Hays, an outspoken Humphrey supporter, is running favorite son presidential delegate slates of his own in six of Ohio's 23 congressional districts. Those candidates are seeking 27 delegate slots, and the 14-term congressman indicated those who are successful would be Humphrey's for the asking. "The convention might well turn to him," the congressman said.

In his speech, Humphrey sounded more like an announced candidate

Navajo Finances Reported Rocky

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajo Nation had $73.6 million in federal cash reserves 12 years ago. But America's biggest Indian tribe is expected to have only $30 million left at the end of this fiscal year.

Several Navajo legislators and a growing groundswell of reservation Navajos are asking what has happened to the tribe's savings, compiled from such sources as mining and timber revenues and held in trust by the federal government. So are authorities, who are investigating reports of fiscal mismanagement.

The Justice Department has been examining tribal affairs for nearly a year; grand juries have indicted three Navajos, two for embezzlement and one for theft, and the tribal council says it may ask the federal General Accounting Office to audit its books.

So far, tribal chairman Peter MacDonald has declined to give a financial report to the estimated 160,000 Navajos. MacDonald, who took office in 1971, said the tribe's reserves have declined because more money is needed to provide services to a growing population.

Population on the reservation in 1970 was 95,000.

Dissidents have raised a number of questions about:

—A lack of accounting. Several tribal councilmen said the only financial data about the tribal government comes in news reports. —The $330,000 annual salary and fees received by the general counsel, George Vlassis of Phoenix.

—The Navajo Housing and Development Enterprise, set up by the tribe to use federal money for reservation housing construction, that went broke. It has asked $1.7 million in tribal funds to pay its bills.

—The Navajo Arts and Crafts Enterprise, which markets Navajo-made jewelry and rugs. It recently closed its shop here for lack of funds.

—A $13.3 million investment of federal funds earmarked for home construction with American Funding Corp., a Beverly Hills, Calif., investment firm now in receivership.

About 350 Navajo men and women marched on Window Rock, the Navajo capital, earlier this week with a list of grievances against the MacDonald administration. They asked appointment of a blue-ribbon panel to delve into tribal finances. They also sought reorganization of the tribal government.

The council agreed by a two-vote margin to consider the protest during its current spring session.

One of the strongest complaints was about a lack of accounting. The last audit of tribal books, by Ernst & Ernst, was in 1972. It said:

"Of $406.9 million in identified revenues, goods and services, only $45 million was being accounted for within the existing financial reporting system of the tribe as of June 30, 1972."

than a standby. He reeled off a long list of national ills which he laid at the doorstep of the Republican administration. "Seven sad years of the Nixon-Ford team have been more than enough," he said.

The senator hit particularly hard at the administration for the nation's still sluggish economy and unemployment rate. "In the last three years, the Nixon-Ford team has been able to increase employment by barely one million jobs...they managed to push the official unemployment rate to an 8.5 per cent average in 1975," he said, adding that it stood at only 3.6 per cent in 1968.

"The Nixon-Ford team has laid waste to the American economy with its 19th Century economic thinking," he said.

Today, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller planned to address the Queen City Club and a private, fundraiser for President Ford during a four-hour visit to Cincinnati. He'll arrive about 5 p.m.

The President's son, Jack Ford, makes his first visit to Ohio during a whirlwind tour that takes him from Piqua in the southwest section of the state to Canton in the northeast.

He'll talk primarily with students at the Upper Valley Vocational School, Bowling Green State University, Ohio State University and then open campaign headquarters for his father in Mansfield.

He'll visit a reception of the Ohio Republican Women's Federation in Canton before calling it a night. The following morning he'll open President Ford's campaign headquarters in that city, where his Republican opponent, Ronald Reagan, has his campaign headquarters for the state.

Another Ford supporter was in Ohio Wednesday night. Rogers C.B. Morton, the Ford national campaign manager, spoke in Columbus to Republican delegates and alternates pledged to Ford.

"I think that the President's position has been regained," Morton told reporters. Ford defeated opponent Ronald Reagan in two primaries on Tuesday after losing to the former California governor in a half-dozen other elections earlier in the month.

"It is apparent in this campaign there is a swing back and forth. The President's campaign has regained its momentum."

And then Morton predicted: "The President will surge ahead steadily."

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said Wednesday there may be a record turnout for the primary. The anticipated large number of voters prompted Brown to warn that persons ineligible to vote or who vote more than once will be prosecuted.

Presidential contender Morris Udall of Arizona promised to come "roaring into Ohio" to campaign for the June 8 primary during an airport news conference in Cleveland Wednesday. He was between flights from Michigan to Kentucky, site of the next primary.

In Ohio, he says voters will show disillusionment with Jimmy Carter on June 8 and possibly give Udall a long-awaited primary victory.

Udall called Ohio the key state in his drive to block a Carter nomination in the Democratic national convention. He said that his narrow loss to Carter in the Michigan primary has rekindled his belief that when he is pitted "one-on-one" with Carter, voters will reject the former Georgia governor's "smile and promise" campaign.

About 3,500 residents qualify for the bivalent vaccine, a combination of Victoria type A and New Jersey type A serum. It will be given only to persons 65 years of age and older or those persons with debilitating illnesses.

The other 37,000 county residents will receive monovalent serum, which has been designed to stop or lessen the effects of New Jersey type A influenza. The eligible population may not include early school-age and younger children. Lower age limits will not be known for two months.

Preliminary plans call for the bivalent serum to be distributed by individual doses after July 1.

The monovalent serum will be distributed after September, probably in a four-day mass immunization clinic at sites throughout the county.

Final location of the clinics and times will be announced later, Kahanek said, although efforts will be made to attract the highest percentage of the county population as possible.

Individual doses will be made available to persons unable to attend the clinics, and the health department has the responsibility to distribute both types of serum to local physicians and agencies or industrial concerns with their own medical staffs.

Immunizations are not mandatory, Kahanek said. But persons are encouraged to participate by the implied seriousness of the New Jersey flu, which is expected to reach epidemic proportions.

Influenza is a respiratory disease caused by a virus. There are two main types, A and B, and each includes various strains. Type A strains generally are more severe and frequent.

The virus-causing influenza in man is constantly changing in minor degrees. Once every 10 years or so the change is more dramatic, causing extensive outbreaks such as the pandemic Asian flu of 1957 and the Hong Kong flu of 1968.

The human influenza virus (New Jersey type A) was isolated in February during an outbreak of respiratory disease among recruits training at Ft. Dix, N.J. Although an influenza virus of swine has been known as the cause of illness in swine for many years, the Ft. Dix outbreak is the first known example in the United States since 1930, when person-to-person transmission was documented.

As with other strains of influenza, there is no specific treatment. Science has, however, come up with the ability to significantly blunt the impact of the disease. Vaccines, not available during the epidemic of 1918, are now an effective way to prevent the disease.

However, the problems of distributing the vaccine to 200 million Americans are enormous. The nation has never attempted an immunization plan with such scope and intensity.

It requires a major effort by the public and private sectors. Essentially, the plan relies on federal government's purchasing power, technical leadership, and coordination through the Center of Disease Control.

In order to reach the population once the vaccine is developed, plans have been formulated to employ "guns" instead of needles and syringes for massive sweep-type inoculations.

The Ohio Department of Health has about 100 jet injector guns available for the mass distribution of monovalent serum. One gun can replace 15 personnel, they claim.

The guns will be available to the county department, but there use will be dependent on a schedule implemented by the ODH. ODH personnel will train volunteers in the operation of the guns.

Greg Clapper, southeast area coordinator, is the ODH supervisor responsible for Pickaway County. He met recently with Leo Kahanek and members of the Health Department staff to discuss details of the program.

Further operational plans are expected to be announced at Tuesday's meeting of the Pickaway County Board of Health.

Songs sung were "America," "Battle Hymn of Republic," "You're A Grand Old Flag," "Leaning On The Everlasting Arms," "Through It All," "Victory In Jesus," "God Bless America," "Great Big Wonderful God," "Faith Of Our Mothers" and the "Lord's Prayer."

A Page Of Opinion

Open Attitude

One of the speakers at the International Press Institute, held in Philadelphia, offered some excellent advice for public officials in a free society. Sir Robert Mark, chief of Scotland Yard, said the best weapon his agency had in the fight against crime was public confidence. What created and maintained the confidence, he said, was providing the press the greatest access possible to the facts.

That is a worthy reminder at a time when some courts and other public agencies in the United States have adopted a contrary attitude: Providing as little information as possible, or at least deciding when the information is to be released, followed in many cases by court orders prohibiting premature disclosure.

These jurists and other public officials are not trying to establish a less democratic forum, but that could be the result if they succeed in dropping a cloak of secrecy on public business. The consequence of that almost assuredly would be a drop in public confidence.

Questionable conduct, behind-the-scenes deals and similar mischief have contributed heavily to the combination skepticism and apathy with which many citizens view their public institutions. The best and only way to remove this unhealthy veil is for public officials to be as totally open and frank as possible.

Sir Robert Mark obviously has the correct attitude, and as a result Scotland Yard — although it undoubtedly makes its share of mistakes — has a most favorable image.

No Made To Order Maids

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — For nearly a quarter of a century, masters of high technological predictions have been promising us a miracle for the home: a robot maid, programmed to clean house and mind the children.

This computerized mother's helper, sometimes dubbed "Monster Marie" or "Frankenstein Fifi," was supposedly just around the corner. Already on the drawing board in 1960, according to futurologists, she could be marketed any time off mother necessity required her invention.

Well, the time would seem to be now. With record numbers of women working outside the home, relatively few women willing to take on "demeaning" domestic duties, where is this mechanical maid who will vacuum, do laundry, polish floors, wash dishes, make beds and wipe runny noses? (A British scientist, only a few years ago, stated that computerized maids can also be effective substitute nannies; they could have a programmed "considerateness of children," he said.)

The hangup probably is money. Even in the pre-inflationary days of the early '60s, a prototype home robot's cost was estimated at nearly $3 million. Even in mass production, it was feared the cost of computerized housekeepers might be prohibitive. Added to that, there would be inherent psychological fears to overcome . . . suppose you decided to lie down for a nap, just at the time Monster Marie was programmed to beat and flip the mattress?

According to futurologist Stephen Rosen, industry is unlikely to offer American homes a wide variety of interim alternatives in the near future, rather than the robot.

For instance, a vacuum cleaner that moves wherever your eye commands it to go: you glance at dust, and the vacuum zooms over to suck it up.

And a "hoverbed" that lets you sleep on a curtain of air; not only are you completely comfortable, you don't have to change the sheets.

How about a "people-washer," an egg-shaped machine into which you climb; your head sticks out, but the rest of you is showered, bathed, massaged and dried. And since sound waves do the cleaning, there's no messy ring around the tub.

To avoid clutter and dusting chores, a method has been invented to microfilm an entire book onto a sheet of paper or film no bigger than a single one of its pages. The viewer, to bring these pages back up to reading size, will be small enough (about as large as paperback) to carry in a pocket or handbag. A student can carry a complete encyclopedia in his pocket; a single home bookshelf a few inches wide can carry a thousand books.

All of these inventions — unlike the robot — could be available in the immediate future, if the demand is there. The technology, and the prototypes, exist. But often, there's many a year 'twixt the concept of an innovation and its realization.

Stephen Rosen, in a startling new book called "Future Facts," (Simon and Schuster) points out that the idea of frozen foods originated in 1908 — but the public didn't taste them till 1923; TV was conceived in 1884, but not available until 1947; photography was conceived in 1782, but the box camera didn't come out till 1838; and it took 30 years for the zipper to pass from the inventor's brain to the public's pants and skirts.

History shows that technology is often far ahead of economic reality. Thus it is that one of Rosen's future facts — a "tubecraft" subway system, which could shoot passengers through airless tunnels underground at a speed of 14,000 mph — is unlikely to materialize in our lifetime. Rand Corporation conceived this VHST (Very High Speed Transit) System, capable of carrying passengers between New York and Los Angeles in 21 minutes, but admits that the first step, the central corridor of the system, would alone cost $90 billion; and today's cities can't afford to maintain their old transit systems, much less contribute to a new one.

On the other hand, many of Rosen's hundreds of dramatic predictions are relatively inexpensive, and could be available quite soon . . .

Three-D TV, instant modular homes, ultrasonic dishwashers, solar stoves, "electric aspirin," plastic cars and flying trains, synthetic blood, food from oil, garlic insecticides, nuclear-powered hearts. These, and others, are likely innovations in our lifetimes. But no robot-of-all-work for mother.

Apparently, in this computerized dream world, Monster Marie was too risky an invention for technologists, who now sense what Rodgers, Hammerstein and even liberated wives and mothers always have known: there is nothing like a dame.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, May 20th, the 141 day of 1976. There are 225 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed the Homestead Act, providing millions of acres of free land to settlers in the American West.

On this date:

In 1927, Charles Lindbergh began his solo flight across the Atlantic to Paris. In 1943, during World War II, the U.S. and Britain ratified a treaty abolishing extraterritorial rights in China.

In 1946, Britain's House of Commons passed a bill to nationalize the nation's coal mines.

Ten years ago: Buddhists and labor unions demonstrated in Saigon to protest government action against Buddhist dissidents in Da Nang.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon announced that the United States and the Soviet Union would try to reach an agreement to limit antiballistic missiles and offense nuclear weapons.

One year ago: President Ford vetoed a bill putting limits on strip-mining, saying it would eliminate jobs and increase dependence on foreign oil.

Today's birthdays: Actor James Stewart is 68. Hockey star Stan Mikita is 36.

Thought for today: The secret of success is constancy of purpose — Benjamin Disraeli, British prime minister, 1804-1881.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, two delegates from Georgia were seated in the Continental Congress in Philadelphia. The two, Lyman Hall and Button Gwinnett, had instructions to use their own judgment in voting on any measures.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am about to retire at 62. I have had mild asthmatic attacks for most of my life. Is there any special climate that I could move to where the chances of asthma are less than in the large city where I live?

Mr. N. J. V., Penn.

Dear Mr. V.:

Far too many people with asthma, chronic bronchitis and mild heart conditions make a sudden, drastic move to a "special climate" in order to find relief from their problems.

The upheaval of moving away from the immediacy of family and friends can be emotionally disturbing. It is a great disappointment when such a move is made and the expected physical comfort is not found in the new environment.

It is true that sufferers from asthma may find some relief in dry climates. Yet, anyone who contemplates such an important move should first try living in the new area to test out its beneficial value. Only in this way can the possible disappointment of such a change be avoided.

Would it come as a surprise to you to know that many teenage girls take water pills to lose weight? I was shocked to learn that my own 15-year-old daughter and two of her friends are taking these pills. Is there no way to control their buying them?

Mrs. J. F., Ohio

Dear Mrs. F.:

It does not come as a surprise to me. The trouble that these young people can get into by "buying and trading" pills is well known to doctors.

Let me immediately state that it is incorrect to believe that water pills can substitute for a sensible, well-regulated low calorie diet.

Such diuretic pills ("water pills") can cause a temporary loss of weight by the release of fluid from the body tissues. But as soon as the water is replenished, the weight returns.

Unfortunately, many of these drugs can, for a price, be purchased illegally, and then surreptitiously sold and traded among these young people who do not understand the potential harm.

Diuretics taken for special reasons, under the supervision of the doctor, are safe. Promiscuous use of these drugs by foolhardy youngsters can only be counterbalanced by open discussion among parents, doctors, teachers and child.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A round-trip ticket from here to London on a regularly scheduled commercial airliner costs between $666 and $806, depending on the time of year. A charter flight might cost as little as $250.

It is because of this vast price differential that so many Americans are expected to travel by charter this year. About 4.5 million passengers went that way in 1974, and 5.5 million in 1975.

This year, with the additional impetus of a recovering economy and a regulatory change, some charter flight officials are predicting the number of passengers will grow to nearly nine million.

Henry Huff, president of Trans International Airlines estimates that 25 per cent of all transatlantic air travel this summer will be by charter flights, compared to about 5 per cent a decade ago.

"Charter tours are cheaper than individual travel because they operate on the basic economic principle that wholesale is cheaper than retail," said Huff, whose company, based in Oakland, Calif., is the largest in the business.

The new ruling by the Civil Aeronautics Board now makes charter flights available to many millions of Americans who once were barred by government restrictions.

In the past a vacationer needed to belong to a "nontravel" organization. Now the tours are open to almost anyone who has the cash, because the CAB has created a new group tour called the one-stop charter, or OTC.

To take part in an OTC flight to a foreign country an individual merely signs up through a travel agent at least 30 days before departure and agrees to spend at least $15 a day on hotel accommodations. Cutoff on domestic flights is 15 days.

A tour operator, who is in effect an independent travel wholesaler, "rents" an entire aircraft for a flight or series of flights to a tourist destination. At the same time he books a large number of rooms in one or several hotels. He then marks up a "travel package" which is sold to the public through retail travel agents, of whom there are about 12,000 in the United States. In many instances the package includes meals, sightseeing and other services.

In most instances almost every seat on the charter plane is sold, compared with only about 50 per cent of seats on scheduled flights, thus making them economically more efficient. Bulk purchasing of meals and rooms does the rest.

As a result, Huff says, a 12-day tour to Hong Kong from East Coast cities, including round-trip air transportation, accommodations at a luxury hotel, breakfasts and sightseeing, costs $699. An individual traveling alone might pay $1,600 for air fare alone.

Meals and in-flight services on charter flights are about the same as those offered in economy class on scheduled service. The types of hotels vary, depending on the cost of the tour.

One of the biggest drawbacks is the lack of flexibility, since members of the group flight must leave and return on specified dates, thus preventing changes of plane en route.

News Of Interest To Women

The Circleville Herald, Thursday May 20, 1976

SANSEVIERIA — This commonly called snake plant shown above has produced a bloom which is uncommon and most people who have had such plants for many years have not been rewarded with the tall delicate, light greenish flower with feathery spikes, coming from between the old leaf and a new shoot. Mrs. Wayne Lash of 7643 Parker Drive, has had several blooms in the past week from one of her plants. They last one day only and then another replaces it late in the afternoon. Upon investigation, Mrs. Lash learned that the fragrant flowers will bloom each year once they have begun, while many plants never put forth any flowers.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Blessed Be The Backyard Playground

DEAR ABBY: Some people seem to think that just because we have a large family, our yard is a public playground.

At this moment I have 16 kids playing ball in my backyard and only seven of them are mine. My problem is that the kids aren't allowed to play in other yards because they ruin the grass and fall in the flowers. I really don't mind, but it wouldn't hurt some of the other parents to let the kids play in their yard once in a while.

At night, the kids ask me to turn on my yard lights so they can play after supper. The yelling and the screaming can be heard for blocks.

When, oh when, will I have peace and quiet again?

MOM WITH PUBLIC PLAYGROUND

DEAR MOM: Too soon. Count your blessings, Mom. You're lucky your children are occupied in a healthy, wholesome sport. You don't have to worry about where they are, what they're doing and with whom. Anybody can raise grass. It takes special people to raise children.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to a good-looking cross-country truck driver for 10 years. I'm not the suspicious type, but Friday night he came off the road with two long scratches on his left hip. They are fairly deep scratches, yet neither his shorts or his trousers were ripped. Rather peculiar, right?

When I asked him where the scratches came from, he said they were probably from a feather in one of the motel beds.

Ford No Stranger To Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gerald R. Ford, the first person ever to become President without facing the national electorate, is no stranger to Ohio.

The former University of Michigan football player, who was House minority leader while in Congress, stopped often in Ohio after he was appointed vice president on Dec. 6, 1973.

He has visited infrequently since becoming President on Aug. 9, 1974. But more visits are expected before Ohio's June 8 presidential primary.

Ford, 62, is locked in a struggle with former California Gov. Ronald Reagan for the Republican nomination. Ohio's 97 Republican convention delegates

Harmless Wasps To 'Invade' Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When the scientists release their wasps next month, it will be an invasion Ohioans won't have to worry about.

That's because the wasps can't sting and have been bred for the unique purpose of protecting cropland.

The wasps will be delivered to farmers throughout the state in June, as part of a program to establish a natural means of controlling the oat leaf beetle, a pest that destroys oats.

The tiny wasps are incapable of stinging people, but are able to protect crops by eating the eggs and larvae of the oat leaf beetle, said Dr. B.D. Blair, an entomologist at Ohio State University.

And farmers who would otherwise spend a lot of money on pesticides to kill the beetles know that's good.

"The beetles have not been a severe problem in most of the state, but they have been a problem in Coshocton and other eastern counties," Blair said.

"It's a big problem to the guy who has to control it."

Actually the wasp program is only one of several practiced by scientists in Ohio and other states to develop natural parasites to replace the need

Nolan, Kay Seek U.S. Senate Seat

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two perennial challengers are competing with two seasoned politicians for the Democratic nomination to run for the U.S. Senate against Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr.

The challengers are James D. Nolan, a Cleveland businessman and nursing home operator, and Richard B. Kay, a former member of the could be a key factor in that race.

Although Ford has been President for less than two years, he claims significant accomplishments in office.

A fiscal conservative, the President says his limits on federal spending—enforced through the presidential veto—combined with tax cuts for individuals have helped start the country away from the cycle of recession-inflation.

"My first objective is to have sound economic growth without inflation," Ford said in his State of the Union address. "The government must stop spending so much and borrowing so much of our money; more money must remain in private hands where it will for chemical pesticides.

Blair said wasp parasites were first released in Ohio in the early 1960's, after a severe infestation of the alfalfa weevil. Blair said the wasps have been so successful that weevils are ceasing to be a problem and farmers sometimes don't have to spray their alfalfa fields for several years.

"If you had to prove in a court of law that the wasps do the job, you'd be up the creek," said Blair. "But we remember when they (weevils) destroyed every field every year. That's all the proof we need."

Blair said use of the natural controls cuts down on the cost of production and ultimately makes it cheaper to raise crops. The parasites do the same work that chemicals do, but they do it for free.

They also are preferable from an environmental point of view, he said.

"If weather conditions favor the wasp and don't favor the pest, environmental problems that may have been created can be avoided," Blair said. "And since farmers can keep down the cost of production, the consumer is the guy that ultimately reaps the benefit."

American Independent Party.

They are competing with Rep. James V. Stanton, D-Ohio, a congressman from Cuyahoga County since 1971, and former Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, who lost his party's nod to seek a full Senate term in 1974 to John Glenn, who went on to win the Senate seat in November.

Three independent candidates also have filed for the Senate race but do not compete until the November election. They are Emma Lila Fundaburk of Bowling Green; Melissa Singler of Cleveland and John O'Neill of Fairview Park.

Nolan, 53, unsuccessfully challenged former Gov. John Gilligan for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1974. He ran for Ohio secretary of state in 1966 but lost to Ted Brown, who still holds the office.

Kay said he joined the Democratic party because he was told his positions are in line with the mainstream of party philosophy.

"My major opponents are out of step with the mainstream of the Democratic Party," he said. "My opponents tell the people what they feel the people want to hear and not what they should hear. People are tired of the flim-flam men."

Kay says he supports a constitutional amendment that would establish a new federal court comprising one judge from each of the fifty states.

He also proposes what he says is a compromise position on abortion which would make the procedure legal only if the life of a fetus could be saved or if a three-member team of doctors said it could not be saved.

Nolan says he has scheduled a series of radio spot announcements to communicate with voters. He is campaigning for an end to bureaucracy and big government.

"For roughly 40 years, the liberals have run the government," said Nolan. "They've tried all these social programs and they just don't work."

do the most good."

On other domestic issues, Ford has proposed tightening rules for welfare eligibility and benefits but opposes major changes in the welfare system as inappropriate "while we are still recovering from a recession."

The President also says he favors less federal regulation of private enterprise and says he wants "to inject some common sense" into federal regulation of job safety and health and environmental protection.

On energy matters, Ford says he wants to encourage discovery and development of domestic sources. He would allow consumer fuel prices to rise to discourage waste and to give oil companies more money for development.

He has called for deregulation of natural gas prices, allowing oil companies to tap naval petroleum reserves and creation of an "energy independence authority" to guarantee private investment in energy projects.

Ford says he is opposed to busing to create racial balance in the public schools. But he added "without any hesitation or qualification...if the court says something has to be done, it will be done, as far as this administration is concerned."

Ford opposes national health insurance but has proposed catastrophic-illness insurance for those now covered by Medicare.

He has proposed an increase in social security taxes by three-tenths of one per cent to pay for mounting costs of the system. He says the increase would amount to about $1 per week.

The President opposes comprehensive gun controls but says he would favor some restrictions on cheap handguns, particularly in high crime areas. He also has proposed construction of four new federal prisons, increasing the number of federal judges and prosecutors and adding 500 federal agents in the 11 largest metropolitan crime areas.

In foreign affairs, the President has continued the Nixon policies of detente toward the Soviet Union and China, although he has banished the word "detente" and says he prefers "peace through strength." He has continued nuclear arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union.

In the Middle East, Ford says that "The key elements for peace...now exist." He has promoted continuing negotiations among the Middle East countries.

On the Panama Canal, which has become an issue of the campaign, Ford has maintained that a new treaty for use of the canal is essential, including the guarantee of eventual Panamanian sovereignty.

Ford said last month in Texas that ending the talks, which were begun in 1964, "would jeopardize the utilization of the canal, would undoubtedly lead to one or more incidents very much more bloody than the one that happened in 1964 and would turn most of Latin America if not all of Latin America against the United States...."

"We are talking about a treaty with an extended duration.... We are going to insist, during the period of that treaty, that we have the right to operate, to maintain and defend it," Ford said. At the end of the treaty, "there would be right of free access by all parties to the utilization of the canal."

Ohio Mine Tragedy Forecast

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio is long overdue for a deep mine disaster, a state safety official has advised legislators considering a bill to upgrade a 35-year-old mine safety law.

"We've been fortunate in the last 27 years," mine rescue Supt. Fred Gaskins told a Senate committee Tuesday. "We're going to have these fatalities. We're way, long overdue."

One miner was killed underground this year, continuing a relatively low fatality rate in Ohio since the early 1950s. Twelve miners lost their lives underground in 1953 and 23 perished in 1951, according to the division of mines.

From 1940 to 1950, 548 deep mine deaths were recorded. The death rate tapered off to 91 between 1950 and 1960, 56 between then and 1970, and 23 over the first six years of this decade.

Gaskins said more and better state mine inspectors were needed to enforce safety rules.

"It's laying in your fellas' laps to get us good men, experienced men," he told the Senate Energy and Environment Committee. "We can't get them off the streets."

The mine division has been unable to attract its full allotment of 26 inspectors, largely because of the $14,000 annual base pay scale, officials say.

The bill, approved 98-0 last month by the House, would increase the complement of state inspectors to 30 and establish a $17,000 pay scale for some positions.

Blame Birds For Crash Of Big Jet

CINCINNATI (AP) — Friction dust produced by the ingestion of birds caused engine failure in the crash of an Overseas National Airways plane at Kennedy International Airport last November, two General Electric engineers testified Wednesday.

The National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) conducted hearings on the crash here Tuesday and Wednesday.

The plane crashed shortly after takeoff, but the 139 passengers aboard were evacuated before the airliner exploded.

Irwin Mendelson, manager of GE's CF6 engine division, said the company has determined the problem of the engines overheating stemmed from a phenolic resin material that shrouds the interior of the engine.

Mendelson said GE is now replacing the shrouds with honeycombed aluminum.

GE engineer James W. Tucker said the ingestion of the birds produced friction, permitting resin to enter the engine's interior. The result was overheating, which led to engine failure.

Rudy Kapustan, NTSB hearing officer, said at the conclusion of testimony here that the investigation into the crash remains open.

Tucker said the engine manufacturer's conclusions were based on new tests duplicating the conditions of the engines at the time of the crash.

Students Form Publishing House

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Students at Harvard College, seeking a better chance for a job after graduation, have formed their own publishing house.

"Being a young writer and trying to get into publishing can be frustrating," said John Whitman, a senior from Bethesda, Md., and editorial chairman of The Undergraduate Press. "There is no real set-out route to get into the field of publishing."

Whitman and three other undergraduates were chosen for the executive board in a competition last spring. Another competition now under way is aimed at getting 20 new members.

The Undergraduate Press is chartered as a regular campus organization. Students receive no course credit for their work.

The Press hopes to publish its first three books next fall.

They are planning: "Is There Life After Harvard?" a guide to job hunting and career planning; a book on French mannerisms and gestures, and an anthology of short prose.

The first was written by Harvard students, assisted by members of the staff of Harvard's Office of Career Services and Off-Campus Learning. Text of the French book is by Laurence C. Wylie, professor of French civilization, and photographs are by Rick Stafford, university photographer.

The anthology will contain work by Harvard undergraduates and by college graduates living in the Boston-Cambridge area.

"Our business people are looking around for small presses" to print the books, Whitman said.

Staffers also are looking into distributing firms, although some distribution will be done by the Harvard University Press, which also provided some of the original financing.

"Ultimately, we'd like to set up a college network" to distribute the books, Whitman said. That project would involve getting students at other universities to interest their university bookstores in selling the books.

Arthur J. Rosenthal, director of the Harvard University Press, had a hand in founding the Undergraduate Press.

Talk of such an organization began three years ago after he was invited to speak on book publishing at one of Harvard's residential houses.

"There was a tremendous influx of students who seemed to be very, very interested in publishing," Rosenthal said.

The job market was tight at the time, he said, and he thought if students could get experience in the entire publishing operation, from the handling of manuscripts to reaching the book buyer, they could see if they "really wanted to go into the field and get a leg up on getting a job."

Also working with the undergraduates is a board of three faculty advisers, and a group of founders.

The latter group is composed of professionals in the publishing field.

Three Women Hurt In Two Car Accidents

Three women were injured in a two-car accident at 2:23 p.m. Wednesday on Route 23 at the Route 316 junction.

The accident occurred when Emma Hoover, 56, Route 7, Zanesville turned left in front of a vehicle driven by Gerald E. Hively, 22, Ashville.

According to Ptl. Dean Harrison of the State Highway Patrol, Mrs. Hoover and her passenger, Henrietta Graham, 60, Columbus, were admitted to Mercy Hospital for injuries sustained in the accident. Also admitted to Mercy Hospital was Graham's mother, Cora Hively, who was a passenger in his auto.

Hively, his wife Ida and six-week old infant Leeann were all treated and released from Mercy and Children's Hospitals respectively.

Ptl. Harrison reports that he believes Mrs. Hoover had waited at a red light at the intersection and then began her left turn upon the change of the light. Hively hit her vehicle broadside. Mrs. Hoover was cited for failure to yield the right of way when turning left at an intersection.

3 Bridges To Be Built Over Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three bridges across the Ohio River will be built soon following a meeting between the governors of Ohio and West Virginia on Wednesday.

Govs. James A. Rhodes of Ohio and Arch A. Moore Jr. of West Virginia announced the construction. It will complete the states' long-standing agreement to build seven new structures across the Ohio River.

The new bridges, to be tollfree facilities, will be constructed between Steubenville, Ohio and Weirton, W.Va.; Moundsville, W.Va. and Dilles Bottom in Belmont County, Ohio; and Ravenswood, W.Va. and near Portland in Meigs County, Ohio.

Highway Commissioner William S. Ritchie Jr. of West Virginia and Transportation Director Richard D. Jackson of Ohio were directed to place the new bridges under the federal highway system in order to obtain federal funding.

See Crunch Near On Indy Qualifying

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Something has to give this weekend when 25 drivers try to cram their cars into one of the 10 spots left in the 33-car starting lineup for the Indianapolis 500.

"It's like trying to put six gallons into a five-gallon bucket," said one veteran track observer. "It's just not going to fit."

One driver almost sure to qualify is 1969 winner Mario Andretti. The dark-haired Pennsylvanian missed the first round of qualifications last weekend when he was in Belgium, driving in that country's Grand Prix.

Andretti has been consistently running his car between 183 and 188 miles an hour, well above the 180 mark expected to be good enough to qualify. He turned in two laps over 187 m.p.h. on Wednesday.

Janet Guthrie's fortunes are not nearly as certain.

The 38-year-old New York physicist has yet to run anywhere near 180 m.p.h. and there are growing doubts about the firepower of her blue Volstead-Offenhauser racer. Her top speed this week has been 171 m.p.h. Wednesday she managed just 168.161. Changes have been ordered.

"We're going to put a laterstyle motor in the car," said Rex Hutton, chief mechanic on Miss Guthrie's car. "This motor has about 600 miles on it. It's getting tired."

Hutton admits Miss Guthrie's time is limited, but he says she can still increase her speed in time to qualify over the weekend. "We wanted to start her off slower so she could get used to the track."

"She's been very consistent — now she should have some speed, too."

Which is not to say her path into the race will be easy if she does.

Looking to get into the race to compete for some $1 million are a flock of other less-publicized drivers. Seven cars not yet qualified have been clocked over 180 m.p.h., and at least 10 more are thought to have a good chance also to top that speed. Track observers say there are others who cannot be completely discounted.

Among those given a chance of cracking the lineup are 16-year-veteran Lloyd Ruby, Salt Walther, Jerry Grant, Mike Hiss, Eldon Rasmussen and rookie Spike Gehlhausen.

Few, if any, of the drivers who qualify this weekend are given a good chance to win the race — not with Johnny Rutherford consistently averaging 189 m.p.h. and Bobby and Al Unser, A.J. Foyt, Gordon Johncock and Tom Sneva all comfortably above 185. But that shouldn't dull the competition.

Vikings Lose To Rangers

Teays Valley traveled to Hamilton Twp. Wednesday and dropped a tough 3-1 decision to the Rangers in a Metropolitan League clash.

Mark Messick went the first four innings for the Vikings and gave up three hits, one walk but failed to come up with a strikeout. Terry Smith hurled the last two frames, allowing two hits, one walk and fanned one.

Denny went all the way for the Rangers, giving up nine hits, one walk and fanned one.

Teays Valley scored its only run in the top of the first and held the lead until the Rangers managed to push across a lone tally in the bottom of the fourth to knot the count. Hamilton put the game away in the sixth when two runners crossed the plate.

Daune Keller belted three singles for the Vikings, Rusty Tahburn smashed a triple and single, Ranie Wonnhas and Roger Bickers each rapped a double while Lance Roese and Jim Baxter ripped one-baggers.

Teays Valley is 9-16 overall, 5-6 in the Metro, and will host West Jefferson 4:30 p.m. today.

Salt Lake City New Spirits Home

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The Spirits of St. Louis of the American Basketball Association, leaving their home because of financial losses and nonsupport from the fans, are moving here where six months ago the Utah Stars folded for the same reasons.

"We're here to stay," announced a confident Harry Weltman, club president and general manager, to a Wednesday news conference.

He said St. Louis "is not really a basketball town." He later said a study by club owners indicated pro basketball could succeed in Salt Lake City with adequate "community involvement."

The question now, however, is how much does the community — the ABA's smallest market — want to get involved with pro basketball? Stars owner Bill Daniels repeatedly tried to sell his team before it folded in December. Declining attendance, personnel problems and a losing record were among problems blamed for the demise.

Earl D. Walters, a businessman who says he has raised more than $600,000 in order to get the Spirits moved here, has said Salt Lake City "is one of the better franchise cities in the nation." On Wednesday, he said the folding of the Stars was not a major concern since he believed it had been more because of inadequate financing than lack of public support.

The Spirits have several attractions for Utah fans. Moses Malone, Ron Boone, Randy Denton and Steve Green played here with the Stars before Daniels sold them to St. Louis. Young Malone and Boone, a playmaker, were favorites.

The Spirits also have temperamental and high-priced Marvin Barnes to lure crowds into the Salt Palace next season.

Spirits officials, who reportedly lost $4 million in the past two seasons, negotiated with Utah business interests to share ownership of the team, which had a 35-49 record last season and was trailed only by the now-defunct Virginia Squires.

Richmond Sweeps Pair From Charleston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Beall had a three-run homer in the opener and a pair of hits in the nightcap as Richmond posted 4-1 and 5-2 International league baseball victories over Charleston Wednesday.

Beall's blast in the bottom of the seventh put the opener away for the Braves. Beall and Brian Asselstine each had a double and a single in the nightcap.

In other IL action Wednesday evening, Tidewater swept a doubleheader, scoring 3-1 and 7-6 victories over Memphis. Randy Trapp singled in the second inning of the opener, pushing in what proved to be the winning run. Trapp scored an inning later on a single by Mark de-John.

Ali-Dunn Fight May Not Come Off

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Muhammad Ali's world heavyweight title defense against European champion Richard Dunn Tuesday may be canceled if a group of German promoters do not produce a missing $225,000 dollars, the American co-promoter said today.

"Unless they come up with the bread, the fight is not going to happen," said Robert Arum, a New York lawyer who is chairman of Top Rank, Inc., which has control of the television rights to the fight.

Yaz, Bosox Smash Tigers, 9-2

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Carl Yastrzemski has played more games than any other man wearing Boston's red Sox but that doesn't mean he's slowing down.

Yastrzemski, the man with the marathon name, set a longevity mark Tuesday night by playing in his 2,293rd game, surpassing the record held by Ted Williams.

If you think that game was one to remember, then what about No. 2,294?

The 36-year-old Boston slugger slammed three home runs Wednesday night to power the Red Sox to a 9-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Yastrzemski, now in his 16th year in the major leagues, had never hit three homers in one game before.

In fact, he hadn't hit three homers this season and was batting .198 entering Wednesday night's game, embarrassing figures for a lifetime .291 hitter.

Yastrzemski finished with four hits, four runs batted in and four runs scored.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3; the New York Yankees nipped the Cleveland Indians 3-2; the Kansas City Royals downed the Oakland A's 5-2, and the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Minnesota Twins 4-1.

The victory was the seventh in the last eight games for the Red Sox, while Detroit lost its fourth straight.

The Red Sox, defending American League champions, are now in fourth place, six games behind the front-running New York Yankees. They play the Yankees four games beginning tonight in New York.

"I'm glad to see us playing well because we're running into those duds," said Boston Manager Darrell Johnson.

Ron LeFlore tripled for the Tigers to extend his hitting streak to 22 games, equalling a streak by Al Kaline in 1961. But the Tiger record is 40 consecutive games set by Ty Cobb in 1911.

Royals 5, A's 2

Consecutive singles in the first inning by John Mayberry, Hal McRae, Al Cowens and Frank White highlighted a three-run first inning that led Kansas City over Oakland.

The Royals strafed three Oakland pitchers for 15 hits. Paul Splittorff picked up the victory, evening his record at 3-3. Mike Torrez, 4-4, was saddled with the loss.

Yankees 3, Indians 2

Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson flashed the steal sign to Duane Kuiper from his position as the baserunner at first base. He had no trouble seeing that it didn't work, although he wouldn't second guess himself after the game.

"I just thought it was good baseball," Robinson said. "If the throw goes through, the runner goes home. I'd rather go for the plate than let the runner get caught at second. It was a gamble, obviously, but I thought it was worth it in that situation."

The situation was that Cleveland was losing 3-2, with the tying run on third and Ray Fosse at the plate.

Fosse, batting .076 on 1-for-13, was about to face a 1-2 pitch, when Robinson broke for second.

But the move backfired when catcher Rick Dempsey fired to second baseman Sandy Alomar, whose relay back to Dempsey nailed pinch-runner Kuiper at the plate.

Orioles 5, Brewers 3

The Orioles continued their mastery over Milwaukee, beating the Brewers for the 10th time in a row and 16th time in the last 17 meetings.

Mark Belanger, Baltimore's hot-hitting shortstop, rapped a run-scoring triple in the first inning and has now had 14 hits in his last 31 at bats.

Mike Cuellar, 39, raised his record to 2-3 but yielded 42-year-old Hank Aaron's second home run of the season and No. 747 of his career.

White Sox 4, Twins 1

Rookie right-hander Pete Vuckovich, making his second start of the season and third of his career, scattered six hits in seven innings to even his record at 1-1.

Ralph Garr rapped out three hits, drove in one run and scored twice to pace the White Sox' attack.

Palmer Sets New Mark For Small Jet

DENVER (AP) — "It feels good to set a record of this kind," proclaimed golfing superstar Arnold Palmer after he and his crew smashed the old mark for an around-the-world flight in a small business jet.

Palmer and three companions completed the journey which took them to six counties in less than three days Wednesday night.

The 23,000-mile flight took 57 hours, 25 minutes and 42 seconds, breaking the record of 86 hours, nine minutes set 10 years ago by entertainer Arthur Godfrey.

Palmer, wearing the same yellow sport shirt and brown suit he wore when he began the flight in his Learjet 36 Monday, embraced his wife, Winnie, after embarking from the aircraft Wednesday night.

He called the trip "exciting and enjoyable."

"The highlight? I guess it is right now," Palmer said.

Palmer's twin-engine jet, called the Yankee 200, averaged 479 miles per hour on the global flight, a spokesman for the Aviation-Space Writers Association, which sponsored the trip, said.

The jet made stops in Boston, Mass.; Paris, France; Tehran, Iran; Colombo, Sri Lanka; Jakarta, Indonesia; Wake Island and Honolulu, Hawaii.

"At Colombo, we started getting a little tired," Palmer said.

The only hitch came when bad weather forced an unplanned landing in Wales.

"We took on fuel (in Wales) so there wouldn't be any problem at Paris," Palmer said.

Palmer was accompanied on the flight by co-pilots James E. Bir and L.L. Purkey of Denver and Robert J. Serling of Washington, D.C., a National Aeronautics Association observer.

General Exchange Tariff P.U.C.O. No. 3 and Local Exchange Tariff P.U.C.O. No. 4, and to substitute therefor proposed portions of its General Exchange Tariff P.U.C.O. No. 3 and Local Exchange Tariff P.U.C.O. No. 4, to effect such increases, adjustments and changes, all as more fully set forth in the Application on file with the Commission and in the exhibits thereto attached and made a part thereof.

The proposed schedule of rates and charges and the changes and revisions applied for in the Application will, if approved by the Commission, provide the Company approximately $17,500,000 in additional annual gross revenue or a 7.9% rate of return on the Company's rate base. The proposed schedule of rates and charges, if approved, will result in an average 33.7% increase in basic exchange rates for residential services and an average 35.4% increase in basic exchange rates for business services. Certain proposed increases or types of increases are greater or less than such averages. For example, residential one-party service is proposed to be increased 38.2% on the average, while residential four-party service would increase 29.8% on the average. Private branch exchange, key system, and miscellaneous equipment rates are also increased and details are available at any public business office of the Company.

The proposed changes and revisions include classification of certain exchanges under a different rate schedule due to a significant growth in main telephone stations since the last approved classification. In addition, the Company proposes increases and adjustments in many other of its communication services. For example, installation charges are proposed to be increased 17%, and local pay station calls are proposed to be increased from 10 cents to 20 cents per call. The Company also proposes a charge for directory assistance for those customers who use the service more than three times per month, in the amount of 20 cents per call. Listed below are the Company's present rates, proposed rates, and proposed rate increases by rate schedule and class of service, and a classification of exchanges by present and proposed rate schedules.

The proposed tariff revisions will effect increases and adjustments in rates and charges and changes in the regulations and practices affecting the same throughout the territory in which the Company operates.

The prayer of the Application requests the Commission to do the following:

A. Find that the present rates and charges are insufficient to yield reasonable compensation for the service rendered and are unjust and unreasonable.

B. Find that proposed rates and charges and the changes, adjustments and revisions applied for in said Application are just and reasonable and approve the same.

C. Approve the filing of the proposed tariffs in the form attached to and incorporated in the Application, modified to reflect such revisions thereof as may become effective, pursuant to orders of the Commission, during the interim between the filing of this Application and the date upon which said proposed tariffs become effective.

D. Make said proposed tariffs effective as soon as it is practical and lawful to do so, and

E. Grant such other and further relief as Applicant is reasonably entitled to in the premises.

A copy of the Application, including a copy of the present and proposed tariffs, a statement showing the amount of proposed increase or decrease in each changed rate or charge, and a statement describing the proposed changes in regulations and practices affecting rates and charges, may be inspected by any interested party at the offices of the Commission, 111 North High Street, Columbus, Ohio, and at any public business office of the Company.

The form of this notice has been approved by The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Mrs. Edman Volunteer Coordinator Of VFY

Five members of the board of trustees of Pickaway County Volunteers for Youth met 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at the YMCA.

Ramona Edman, who has agreed to replace Edith Downing as volunteer coordinator for a trial period of six months, was also present. Mrs. Downing, founder of VFY, asked to be replaced due to other obligations.

President Diane Berger reported that VFY had a productive meeting with officials of the Circleville City School System May 12. She requested approval for the purchase of a typewriter to be used by publicity chairman Marsha Schneider until office space is available at the Red Cross building.

Volunteer Coordinator Edith Downing reported that 16 volunteers are currently working with probationers, seven are between assignments and five are inactive. She requested permission because of special circumstances to assign a Junior High student not on probation to a volunteer. The board agreed to allow the assignment in this instance but noted that the exception should not become a precedent citing the purpose of the organization as being an alternative to probation for juvenile offenders. Mrs. Downing also reported that five members would be attending a conference on "Services to Unruly Youth" in Columbus, Monday, May 24.

Marsha Schneider reported that a series of videotapes produced by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency-Volunteers in Probation organization are available through the Ohio Association of Volunteers in Criminal Justice. Pat Ayers of Circleville Cablevision Associates has agreed to run the series for VFY on the local channel reserved for Educational Programming. The tapes comprise a college course which Ms. Schneider took at Olivet College, Michigan two summers ago. The board agreed to lease the tapes for airing at an undetermined date.

Ms. Schneider also reported on the availability of a training and evaluation program through the Ohio Adult Parole Authority. The board requested that volunteers from Washington C.H. who have taken the training be invited to the July in-service meeting to help local volunteers determine whether or not they wish to participate.

Tom Downing reported that arrangements for liability insurance for VFY members had not yet been finalized. Dieter Droste reported that no post office boxes are available at the present time.

U.S. Losing Defense Edge

CLEVELAND (AP) — Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld says that while the Soviet Union has been expanding its military capability, this country has been downgrading its defense budget.

Rumsfeld told the Cleveland Council on World Affairs Wednesday this country is capable of defending itself now, but added that if the trend continues, a future defense secretary might not be able to make that statement.

Rumsfeld said the defense establishment has a larger budget today, but, "it represents the smallest percentage of the gross national product, the smallest percentage of the labor pool and the smallest percentage of the budget of any time since before Pearl Harbor."

He said the Defense Department probably was "more efficient than any other element of U.S. government."

Welfare Appropriations Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The legislature's two finance chairmen have introduced identical $138.5 million supplemental appropriations bills to finance welfare programs next fiscal year and help Ohio's bid to attract foreign auto production plants.

Also included in the legislation, introduced Tuesday at skeleton sessions of the Senate and House, was a $5 million outlay to help ease funding difficulties of the instructional grants program for needy college students.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said he expects the bill to be approved when the legislature returns June 9 for a three-day clean-up session. Hearings are expected to get under way in advance of the lawmakers' return in the House Finance Committee, under Chairman Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville. Most of the money contained in the measure—$128.5 million—is for welfare programs in the second year of the fiscal biennium which starts July 1. Those funds are being carried over from the current year as a result of an earlier line item veto by Gov. James A. Rhodes in the 1975-1977 budget bill.

Riffe said no new funds are provided to ease the current Medicaid payment crisis in the welfare department, but could be added by amendment later if they can be found. A joint committee still is looking into fund shortages estimated by the department at more than $40 million, Riffe pointed out.

Criminal Record Erasure Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Council of Churches says it supports provisions that would erase the criminal records of juveniles after two years.

The council's general board voted to support mandatory expungement of juvenile records, acting on the belief that forgiveness should be a factor in the criminal justice system.

The council's general board, representing 86 denominations, also voted to continue supporting the purpose and work of the United Nations and to support negotiations toward a treaty that would permit Panama to recover control of the Canal Zone.

LIFE SAVER — Hocking Technical College nursing student Charles Warden, left, who has been cited for saving numerous lives at Orient State Institute, demonstrates resuscitation techniques to Hocking Tech Health Careers Director and Nursing Technology Coordinator Judith Maxson, second from right, and to practical nursing students Tim Hammond of Chillicothe and Vicki Rose of Frankfort.

Orient Man Cited For Saving Lives

NELSONVILLE — A Hocking Technical College nursing student who is also a full-time employee at Orient State Institute in Orient, was cited recently for "selfless and human action in saving numerous lives."

Charles W. Warden III received the Meritorious Service Award from Emergency Product News, a national publication for emergency squads, which cited him for saving the lives of several Orient residents between November and April.

"He has saved choking victims and victims suffering from serious respiratory distress and from cardipulmonary arrest, among others," the citation noted. "Without Warden's outstanding emergency skills and prompt action, these victims would surely not have survived." John Harbaugh, hospital administrator at Orient, said in his nomination of Warden for the award.

Originally from Delaware, Warden, 34, is a second-year nursing student at Hocking Tech. As a full-time student with a Dean's List average, he still maintains his full-time position as an emergency medical technician at Orient. His daily schedule includes a 150-mile round trip drive between Nelsonville and Orient.

"I thoroughly enjoy helping people and being with them," he says of his work at Orient which is the state's largest mental institution with 2,600 residents.

When he completes his nursing training at Hocking Tech, Warden intends to complete his bachelor's degree and then set his sights on a master's degree and eventually Ph.D., all in the field of nursing or nursing education.

His previous training and experience includes three years as a cardiovascular technician in the U.S. Army, two years as an open heart technician at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond and a year's training as a licensed practical nurse.

As long as he can remember, Warden says he has wanted to be a nurse. And being a male in what is usually considered a female profession has given him a special insight into bigotry.

As one of the first males to become a licensed practical nurse in Virginia, Warden says he had to "take a lot of razzing" and was very much aware that, as a male in nursing, he had to "have something extra because people are watching you."

"It's people's rights," he says of the women's lib and racial equality movements. "I don't relate discrimination to sex or color. People's rights have always been important to me," he says, recalling that he marched for those rights in Selma, Ala., in 1961.

Such convictions influence his professional services, too, which are, according to his citation, "characterized by a high sense of integrity, duty and compassion."

And because people as human beings are so important to him, no matter how far he goes with his education he vows that he will always be involved with patient care, particularly in some kind of emergency care. "That's my bag,"

Kissinger Influence Fading?

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Concern about Henry A. Kissinger's campaign-weakened effectiveness as a diplomat clouded today's opening of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization ministerial meeting here.

A senior U.S. official admitted to reporters during the secretary of state's flight from Washington on Wednesday that the U.S. presidential election campaign had slowed Kissinger's diplomatic initiatives, particularly toward the Russians.

He said European officials think that campaign attacks on Kissinger by President Ford's opponents may have weakened the secretary's ability to carry out policy.

But the official said Kissinger will keep U.S. foreign policy on a steady course.

He added that the significance of Kissinger's stated desire to retire by January has been overblown, since the secretary had said months ago that he felt eight years in office was enough.

Former President Richard M. Nixon made Kissinger head of the National Security Council in 1969 and secretary of state in 1973.

Kissinger arranged a meeting today with Greek Foreign Minister Dimitri Bitsios to discuss Cyprus and was to meet later with Turkish Foreign Minister Isihan Caglayanil.

But the senior American official said Kissinger didn't expect much progress because both sides have submitted unacceptable proposals.

Ford Prods Rhodesia On Blacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is stepping up its efforts to prod Rhodesian President Ian Smith into negotiations for a peaceful takeover by the African nation's black majority.

The administration has been working through African and European countries in its indirect contacts with the Rhodesian government. Talks between Smith and President Ford have been all but ruled out.

Meanwhile, the White House has reached a tentative decision not to step up pressure on Congress now for an immediate vote to nullify the Byrd amendment, which permits the import of chrome from Rhodesia in defiance of a United Nations embargo.

"It's a very emotional issue and we're not sure we have the votes," said one official, denying at the same time that politics are a consideration in shaping U.S. policy toward southern Africa.

Ronald Reagan, battling Ford for the GOP presidential nomination, has criticized the administration's pledge to support black rule in Rhodesia as misdirected and possibly as an encouragement to violence.

On the other hand, to many black African nations, initially skeptical of the administration's new support for the black majority movement in southern Africa, the intensity of the campaign against the Byrd amendment is a pivotal test of U.S. resolve.

Man Finally Gets Degree

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP) — On his way to a college degree, Edward J. Handwerk of Orrville got sidetracked by a war—World War I.

It took him 58 years to get back, but Sunday, at the age of 81, Handwerk graduates from Heidelberg College.

Handwerk was 11 hours short of graduation in the fall of 1917 when he entered the Army.

He says financial problems prevented his return, but last summer he began finishing his studies, completing his work at Heidelberg, 100 miles from his home, by telephone and mail.

Dr. John A. Krout, who was a classmate 62 years ago, will deliver the commencement address when Handwerk gets his bachelor's degree in religion.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Tone down your innate aggressiveness and self-will now. Certain associates will be oversensitive; will resent interference of any kind.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A good day for dealing with superiors, with persons in authority generally. Any or all should be receptive to your ideas.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Mercury restrictions lift. A favorable report now gives you the "green light" to go ahead with important plans, decisions.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Stimulating influences now heighten your ambitions and energies, but don't overtax yourself. Delegate some tasks to associates.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): A more or less routine day, but some slightly unconventional and off-beat activities during the evening hours could be fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A top performance needs only your good management and will power rarely found wanting in the Virgoan. Don't waste time on nonessentials and, above all, don't underestimate minor gains.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): This could be a livelier day than anticipated, and YOU can meet all situations with grace and agility. Romance favored.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A fine outlook. Avoid the unconventional, hasty or erratic, however. You have real opportunity to achieve; don't spoil it through indifference or sporadic effort.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Some interesting activities indicated, but certain "dull" matters will require attention nonetheless. Attack with determination and a realistic point of view.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): An appropriate time for reconnaissance. Make sure of all procedures. Review precedents and experiences of others for enlightenment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You must recognize your limitations, of course, but DO strive to widen your boundaries, broaden your horizons. Your imagination at a peak now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Your intuition is one of the strongest in the zodiacal spectrum. If you get a hunch now, act on it. Stars are on your side.

YOU BORN TODAY, as a Taurus-Gemini cuspal (one born at the change of Signs), are highly competent, extremely versatile and the possessor of a most engaging personality. Always "on your toes" mentally, you never pass up an opportunity, and your eager enthusiasm for accomplishment is rarely dimmed. Thus you usually achieve eminently high plateaus of success while others are still dawdling along and indulging in wishful thinking. You have a great love of knowledge and a lively curiosity which usually attracts you to the extraordinary in life. Many scientists, writers, musicians, architects, inventors and physicians have been born in this zodiacal sector. Birthdate of: Alexander Pope, Eng. Poet; Dennis Day, singer.

Baton Rouge, one of the earliest French settlements in Louisiana, means "red stick."

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 1,700 striking NBC technicians, newswriters and other employees vote tonight on a new four-year contract. If they approve it, they'll end their seven-week strike and return to work Monday.

That's the word from Ed Lynch, head of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (NABET), whose members at NBC walked off the job April 1 after failing to reach agreement on a new contract. "I hope they accept it," says Lynch of the proposed contract that would give most of NBC's engineers and newswriters $500 a week in the final year of the pact. Balloting is to end by midnight Friday.

The union, whose members struck NBC facilities here and in Washington, D.C.; Cleveland; Chicago; San Francisco, and Burbank, Calif., has recommended approval of the proposed contract.

But there could be a snag. Lynch says the contract could be turned down for the entire membership if any of NABET's 14 units at NBC facilities vote to reject the proposed agreement.

He said the agreement to which NABET and NBC say they've tentatively agreed "simply says neither party is obliged to sign (the contract) if any unit doesn't ratify it."

The majority of NABET members at NBC are technicians. But the union's jurisdiction also includes all newswriters, as well as building maintenance men here, air conditioning technicians here and in Burbank, and mailroom staffers and messengers in Chicago, Lynch says.

If any NABET unit rejects the proposed contract, he said, the union's negotiators will try to learn why and resolve any differences. Asked what happens if the unit still balks, he only would say, "Anything can happen."

On Wednesday a week ago, NABET members rejected an NBC contract offer on which the union had made no recommendations.

The main issues in the strike have centered around operation of the new light, hand-held TV cameras called "minicams" used in news coverage, additional fees paid NABET crews when they aren't given a full hour for lunch when in the field covering news stories, and work schedules.

However, "in recent weeks it has been money," said Lynch, whose troops are being offered a total increase in pay of 38 per cent over four years.

NBC's technical supervisors and management personnel have filled in for the strikers since the labor dispute began, occasionally with obvious technical difficulties.

But the network says the strike only has forced one program change — postponement of a new daytime game show, "The Fun Factory," scheduled to premiere in mid-April. Its planned time slot currently is being filled with repeats of "Magnificent Marble Machine," which it was to replace.

In Memoriam

In Memoriam
In loving memory of William R. Miller who passed away May 20, 1968.
Eight years have passed since that sad day.
Softly the leaves of memory fall.
Gently we gather and treasure them all.
Unseen, unheard, he is always near.
Still loved, still missed, and so very dear.
Ever loved and remembered, by mother,
Elta Miller

CONTAINER FIRE — A minor fire, which broke out on the roof section of the Container Corp. of America plant Thursday morning, was quickly extinguished by the Circleville Fire Department. Fire Chief Mike Brown, pictured talking to workers said conditions that caused several recent fires on the roof of the building are being corrected by plant officials. High-temperature lines used to transmit heat from the boiler to the paper drying section are being moved from under the roof surface to elevated lines on top of the structure, Chief Brown said. In fact, the flaming blaze was discovered by workmen in the process of making the changeover. While part of the department was extinguishing the fire at the Container plant, another call came from the Tradition House. At 10:08 a.m., the second truck dispatched to the furniture store where an elevator motor was burning on top of the roof. Light damages were caused by smoke which infiltrated the building.

Brown: New Face, New Politics?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Jerry Brown has been a political mix of liberal and conservative in 16 months as California governor. He has made few sweeping changes in state government, but he has made an impact in areas ranging from sex laws to education spending.

Brown, who put a dent in the Jimmy Carter bandwagon by beating him in Maryland's Democratic presidential primary on Tuesday, rarely affects people in a neutral way. He is often viewed as representing the best or the worst of the "new politics" in the United States.

A leader of people, Brown says, must set a tone. He talks a lot about "lowered expectations" and limits on what government can do for people. "I see nothing wrong with a creative pause," he says.

Many columnists describe the 38-year-old governor as the most interesting politician in the country today. Provocative, flashy, bright, anti-big government, young, on the move, moving up.

But his foes say he has implemented a "politics of drift" in California since he took over from GOP presidential contender Ronald Reagan. They find him ambitious, cold, shallow, sanctimonious.

Much of the debate centers on the record of this tall, thin, animated politician who often tells reporters about his 16-hour-a-day, six-day work week and calls campaigning his idea of "a perfect day."

Brown, a former seminarian who is fond of Biblical quotes and philosophical dialogue, doesn't do much to clarify his record. He says he is not a sixpoint program man.

Brown's stance — offering more questions than answers — gives fuel to his critics. But he has retained his unprecedented high in popularity polls.

Brown, the son of former California Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, has taken a conservative tack on several grounds: keeping a no-newtaxes pledge and signing bills imposing mandatory prison terms for heroin pushers and for the use of a gun in the commission of some crimes.

The state budget, now $11.8 billion, increased by 10.6 per cent in Brown's first year in office. That compares to an average annual increase of 12.2 per cent in the Reagan years. Brown worked with legislators last year to cut a proposed school finance bill from $220 to $115 million, then used his veto power to cut another $27 million. His finance department officials have testified against proposed spending increases for other social services, including Medi-Cal.

At the same time, he signed a bill sought by liberals abolishing a $40 million annual oil depletion allowance for major oil companies. He issued an executive order forbidding state-chartered savings and loan associations from redlining ghetto areas and denying loans to the poor or members of minority groups.

He also pushed for a constitutional amendment, now on the June 8 ballot, which would make it possible to increase bank and corporation taxes on a majority rather than two-thirds legislative vote. And he signed bills liberalizing marijuana penalties and repealing sex laws used against homosexuals.

Concorde Landings OK'd By Courts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court decision apparently clears the way for the controversial supersonic Concorde jet to start scheduled flights from London and Paris to Washington on Monday.

The decision also has provided new legal ammunition for Concorde's lawyers in their upcoming battles with the Port Authority of New York-New Jersey, which has banned the French-British plane from landing at John F. Kennedy Airport for six months.

The three-judge panel Wednesday refused to overturn the Feb. 4 decision by Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. that allowed Air France and British Airways to operate limited Concorde flights into two U.S. airports for up to 16 months.

"This court is in agreement with the secretary that in the circumstances of this case, his order for such a trial period is within his authority and competence and is not arbitrary or capricious or otherwise in violation of law," the judges ruled after hearing more than two hours of legal arguments from attorneys representing various sides in the dispute.

The ruling was a setback to environmental groups which had hoped the court would overturn Coleman's ruling allowing the two airlines each to offer two daily flights into Kennedy and one daily flight into Washington's Dulles International Airport during the test period.

An attorney for the Environmental Defense Fund, which brought the suit against Coleman's order, said his organization planned to ask the full appeals court to review the ruling but said the petition probably would not be filed in time to halt the first flights.

Both Air France and British Airways plan to start Concorde service Monday with the planes landing at Dulles within minutes of each other.

The airlines originally had hoped to
